

ANOTHER OLD CITIZEN.

Mr. Thomas G. Culbertson, Dies at His Home at Echo Point.

SKETCH OF DECEASED'S CAREER.

He Was One of the Leading Manufacturers and Business Men Many Years Ago-Of Late Years He Has Not Been in Active Business Life-A Prominent Member of the Septuagenarian Club-The Funeral To-day.

Yesterday at noon the life of one of Wheeling's oldest and best known citizens, Mr. Thomas G. Culbertson, came to a peaceful close at the home of his son at Echo Point. Mr. Culbertson was over eighty-eight years old, having been born near Chambersburg, Pa., on April 11, 1807. When about twenty-one years old he started west to seek his fortune and came to Pittsburgh, where he remained three years. In 1830 he came to Wheeling, and an old directory of 1830 gives the name of "Thomas G. Culbertson, cooper, tin and sheet-iron ware manufacturer, waterroom No. 17 Union street," which would be about the present site of Hillman's jewelry store on Eleventh street. He was afterward for some years a partner in the stove foundry of Ott, Culbertson & Greer. After the dissolution of this firm, Mr. Ott and Mr. Greer going into the hardware business, Mr. Culbertson became the sole proprietor of the Star Foundry, on the corner now occupied by Robert Luke's livery stable. Many readers will remember the destruction of the Star Foundry by fire and the disastrous falling of the walls into the alley, resulting in the injury of several men and the death of John Houston Brady, a policeman.

Mr. Culbertson afterward continued the Star foundry in partnership with the late Benjamin Fisher. After disposing of his share to Mr. Fisher, Mr. Culbertson removed to Martin's Ferry, where for some years he conducted a foundry and machine shop. Since quitting an active business life he has made his home with his only son, Mr. John D. Culbertson, and has happily spent the closing years of a vigorous old age. Mr. Culbertson's first wife was the sister of Mr. Jacob R. Greer, and the children of this marriage were Mrs. William Clark and Mrs. Addie Greer. His second wife was the only sister of the late John R. Dickey, and their children are John D. Culbertson and Mrs. B. J. McColloch, of Owatonna, Minn. There are living three children, twelve grandchildren and seventeen great-grandchildren.

Mr. Culbertson was a large, fine-looking, vigorous man, and carried his years remarkably well. He was strong and hale till within a few weeks, when there was a gradual failure of his vital forces. He was a man of strong mental as well as physical power, was a public-spirited citizen, and a courteous, Christian gentleman. He was for many years an elder of the First Presbyterian church of Wheeling and of the First Presbyterian church of Martin's Ferry. His death marks the end of an honorable, straightforward career that is worthy of admiration and emulation.

He was a member of the Septuagenarian Club, of Martin's Ferry and Wheeling, and since the organization has taken an active interest in it. The last meeting of the club which he attended took place at the home of Mr. E. P. Rhodes in Bridgeport about a month ago.

The funeral will occur this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from the residence of the deceased's son, John D. Culbertson, at Echo Point. The interment will be at Mount Wood cemetery.

An Old Wheeling Lady Dead.

A telegram was received here yesterday announcing the death at 10:50 a. m. yesterday of Mrs. Julia A. Ford, at Wilmington, Del., at the advanced age of over eighty years. She was the widow of the late Joseph R. Ford and the mother of Mrs. Laura E. Hearne and grandmother of the Messrs. Hearne, of this city. Mr. Ford was years ago agent of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad here, and the family were prominent residents of Wheeling. Mrs. Hearne, who has been at Mt. Lake Park left at once, and will return to Wheeling with the remains. The funeral will take place on the arrival of the body, the interment being at Greenwood.

A PATHETIC INCIDENT

Attending the Shipment of the Remains of Dr. Burton.

The touching and pathetic incidents that clustered around the death of Dr. G. W. Burton are seldom met with in real life and not much often in the lively imagination of the writer of fiction. The late doctor's home was in Logansport, Ind., and he came here to make his way in his chosen profession. He had been located here for a short time, but had gained the confidence and respect of all who knew him, and his future was most promising. Besides his love for his profession he had another love which inspired him to his best efforts—a comely maiden of Logansport, who was pledged to be his wife. But death snatched all his dreams of earthly happiness.

At his death his family was telegraphed of the sad event by Undertaker Bertschy, who took charge of the remains, and the next day the uncle of the deceased and the promised bride of the doctor arrived here. They waited to hear from the father, but getting no intelligence resolved to take the remains to Logansport, Ind.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Bertschy had the corpse at the depot ready for shipment over the P. O. & St. L. road. Just as he was making some final directions the Ohio River train pulled in, and a tall, handsome looking gentleman got off, and noticing the coffin, asked the undertaker whose body was being shipped. Mr. Bertschy replied that it was Dr. Burton's. Immediately the man's eyes filled, and finally he gave way to uncontrollable weeping. Mr. Bertschy was called away for a moment to attend to some details about the shipment of the body, but returned to the man, being struck by his grief.

"Were you acquainted with Dr. Burton?" asked Mr. Bertschy. "The stranger looked up and said, 'He was my son.' Mr. Bertschy was completely taken back by the revelation, and after recovering he asked how it was that he came to Wheeling over the Ohio River road. The stricken father explained that at the time the telegram reached his home he was traveling in Illinois, and that he did not receive intelligence of his son's fatal illness until Tuesday. When the telegram did reach him he immediately started for this city. He took the Chesapeake & Ohio at Cincinnati for Huntington, where he boarded the first Ohio River train for Wheeling. It was a terrible shock—all the more so that he could not look on his dead son's face, for the reason that the casket had to be sealed on account of the contagious nature of the disease that ended Dr. Burton's hopeful career.

"Can I see that your baggage is checked back to Logansport?" asked Mr. Bertschy.

"Nothing," said the grief-stricken father. "You see me just as I am. I brought nothing in my hurry." The sobbing sweetheart, the sympathetic uncle and the heavy-hearted father then took the 1:15 train for home. The grief of these people, while deep, was so quiet that few around the depot knew how much sorrow that train was bearing away.

VERY SUDDEN DEATH.

Peter Noll Falls in the Street at Fulton and Esplanade.

Peter Noll, who lived near Mt. de Chantal, met with a shockingly sudden death yesterday. He was hauling some hogs to Schenk & Sons' packing establishment, when one of them jumped out of the wagon. Though sixty-five years old, he got out and started to pursue the animal, but he had not gone far when he fell to the ground, and almost before help could reach him he was dead. Coroner Schultze was summoned and rendered a certificate of death from heart disease.

Mr. Noll was formerly a butcher on Long Run, and afterwards was in the milk business. He leaves a wife and four children. One son is a grocer in Fulton and a married daughter also lives there.

Corbett and family, of South Fourth street, for the past week, returned to her home on Tuesday accompanied by her cousin, Miss Georgia Corbett, who will spend a couple of weeks with her kinfolk in Wheeling and vicinity.—Steubenville Star.

Martin's Ferry Glass factories.

At the meeting of the directors and glassworkers held at the West Virginia Glass Works no proposition was submitted to the latter and the meeting adjourned without doing anything. The directors were not ready to make a proposition. It is hoped that some arrangement can be made and work resumed.

The blowers at the Buckeye Glass Works were off yesterday afternoon because the management would not pay for 200 bad tumblers made by two men. These and two others were discharged and work was resumed last night as usual.

HUNTING FOR GREASE.

Operations Extending on That "Straight Line" Down the River.

THE EXTENSION TO THE SOUTHWEST

Has Been Along That Same Straight Line From Oil City to Wood County—Wells Being Drilled in Mason County on the Kanawha—The Gallagher Well in Marshall County is Promising—Other Oil News.

The activity of the drill in the world of oil has never been so great, and the recent drop in the market price of "grease" does not seem to have had a very depressing effect on operations. In the West Virginia fields at least. In fact, operations are active far beyond the limits of the recognized fields. For some time the trend of development has been in a straight line toward the southwest. A straight line drawn upon a map of the oil country, starting at Oil City, takes in the Butler district, Washington county, Pennsylvania; Marshall, Wetzel, Tyler, Pleasants and Wood counties, in West Virginia, in all of which oil is being produced.

The average wild-catter believes that this straight line continuing down through Jackson, Wirt, Mason and Cabell counties in West Virginia to the oil and gas district in eastern Kentucky, marks new areas of oil and gas producing territory. In fact the country from Wood county down the Ohio river and back of that stream in this state, is now the principal field of operations of the wild catter. Territory is being leased in Mason, Jackson and Cabell counties quite extensively and three wells are about to be put down in Mason a short distance up the Kanawha river from Point Pleasant in Mason county. The developments in that region are being watched eagerly and a lucky strike or two will set the whole district wild with the oil fever. Several Wheeling people are among those who have recently taken up territory in the neighborhood of the projected wells in Mason and Putnam counties.

The Gallagher Well.

The well on the Gallagher farm, seven miles southwest of Moundsville, in Marshall county, is now in the hard stone just above the "Big Injun" sand. The gas is still coming out strong with a strong odor of oil, and it is expected that when the sand is reached the well will show up with some oil. Those who have been watching the progress of this well are now out leasing everything in sight, and the farmers are becoming excited.

Two Good Wells Struck.

Intelligence was received in this city last evening that a well had come in on the Culbertson farm at Sistersville, and is yielding at the rate of 400 barrels a day, and another on the Lowe farm which is doing fully 900 barrels.

Cumberland Coal Won.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Bids were opened at Norfolk yesterday for coal supplies for naval vessels. An agent of the Virginia Coal Company was at the state department to-day, and said that although the coal from southwest Virginia tested as high for steam purposes as that of Cumberland coal, the latter was accepted because of transportation rates.

Fraud Orders.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31.—Fraud orders were issued to-day against J. M. Bain, W. H. Griffith & Co., the Zanesville Chemical Company and the Black Diamond Manufacturing Company, of New Concord and Zanesville, O., and against the Excelsior Poultry Company, of Decatur, Ill.

They Will Be Sold.

CHICAGO, July 31.—The whisky trust litigation came up in the United States court to-day, and the Greenhut-Morris faction was again defeated in an effort to postpone the sale of the trust plants.

Worn Out Women

Should read this letter. It shows the wonderful building-up powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. "I wish I could stand in some public place and cry to alluring humanity, 'Hear this, ye people, what wonderful things Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me and my family.' I cannot express what I suffered. Only one of my sex knows what a woman can suffer in my condition. I was prostrate with nervousness and weakness. The least noise would drive me frantic. I decided to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am overjoyed to say that I am now well, hearty, rosy and plump."
